

Childhood cancer takes away many things from children. A chance to go to college should not be one of them.

Northwestern Mutual's Childhood Cancer Survivor Scholarship Program gives survivors of childhood cancer the opportunity to continue their education and pursue their college dreams.

Twenty-five $5,000 undergraduate awards will be given for the upcoming academic year. Awards are renewable up to one year or until a bachelor's degree is earned, whichever occurs earlier.

Childhood cancer survivors may apply if they are:

- Age 25 or under
- A high school senior, high school graduate, or current postsecondary undergraduate
- Enrolled in fulltime undergraduate study at an accredited two-year or four-year college, university, or vocational-technical school for the entire academic year
- Have a minimum grade point average of 2.5 on a 4.0 scale (or the equivalent)

A written personal statement describing the impact cancer has had on the applicant's life, and a medical verification form from the applicant's treating oncologist is also required.
